LIFE WITHOUT CASEDO

I began using Casedo as a law student, so it has always been integral to my legal work.

LIFE WITH CASEDO

As a barrister managing a multi-disciplinary practice, Casedo has been an indispensable tool in my daily work. I was lucky to know Casedo and the legal tech world before becoming a barrister, so it just made sense to use the software in my practice.

What makes Casedo particularly appealing is its user-friendly interface, supported by an attentive team that ensures a smooth onboarding process for practitioners at any level of familiarity with the platform. Casedo has proven to be an invaluable asset in my family and criminal law practice. The software allows me to efficiently manage case files by consolidating PDFs, email correspondence, and image files into one accessible platform. With the ability to swiftly navigate and bookmark crucial information, Casedo enhances my case preparation, ensuring I can access key details at lightning speed both inside and outside the courtroom.

As a direct access practitioner, the platform's functionality in numbering and organising bundles for court proceedings has been particularly beneficial, streamlining the preparation process for hearings, appeals, and various legal engagements. With Casedo, I can effortlessly transition from receiving an email with numerous attachments to having a well-organised Casedo bundle, making sense of the documents within minutes and saving valuable time in my workflow.
